The COCOMI story

In our family, we say “everything starts with the coconut” and our love story with coconut has been 100 years in the making: it all started when our great grandmother began farming the rich Sri Lankan lands for tea, spices and coconuts.

Dad would spend hours on the farm climbing coconut palms and sneaking sips of crisp coconut water. He felt the benefits of living in harmony with nature, and tasted that goodness in every coconut. A doctor by training, he decided, with the support of our Mom, to hang up his white coat, and begin his organic journey towards caring for the environment and a sustainable future.

Since then, he’s transformed our family holdings into the largest organic coconut farm in Sri Lanka, with a thriving community of over 2000 traditional farming families.

Inspired by our Dad’s vision, in 2013, we founded Cocomi.

Coconuts with love from our family farms

The one and only

We're the only organic Sri Lankan coconut brand that grows our own coconuts and manufactures our own products. This gives us control over quality at every stage of production, direct traceability from farm to shelf, and the consumer, peace of mind.

Natural goodness guaranteed

Ours are the freshest coconut products you'll find. Every single coconut is processed within 4 hours of cracking so you'll get that fresh taste with every sip and bite.

Our farms: nature as it should be

Located at the heart of the Coconut Triangle, our family has been practising organic farming for generations and were the first exporter of organic certified products from Sri Lanka.

We respect and protect the cycle of life: Our farms are rich in biodiversity with every human, plant and animal having their role to balance our ecosystem. Our farmers only use natural inputs, like rice straw and plants for nitrogen fixing; we intercrop our coconut palms to enrich and maintain the stability of our soil; and welcome animals onto our farms, from strutting peacocks and lazy iguanas.

We make sure everything that can be returned to nature is given back: Our factories run on the energy produced from coconut shells; the coconut husks, the nutritive outermost layer, are buried at the base of the palms, enriching the roots with nutrients; our waste water is biologically treated and recycled, while rain water is regularly harvested and stored to be used in times of drought.

Our Palms in training!

"Everything that we can return to Mother Nature is given back..."

Our facilities are trusted all over the world
BRC: AA rating, ISO: 22000, BSCI

The Cocomi community

"We are all in this together". Every pack of Cocomi directly supports our local Sri Lankan farming community, protects our precious ecosystem and promotes organic Sri Lankan produce across the world.

We ensure that our farming families get the right support: from free healthcare, to support and training with organic certification. This gives our farmers the chance to thrive using traditional skills handed down from father to son over generations.

World class coconuts: manufacturing facilities

The company is a pioneer in the Sri Lankan coconut industry with state of the art processing and packaging facilities. Sustainability is at the core of our improvement initiatives, and we're on our way to turning our factories carbon neutral by 2020, using coconut shell to power our boilers and solar to generate electricity. And that's not all...

Testing, testing

Our facilities are equipped with in-house microbiological & physical testing facilities. They allow us to maintain the highest product quality at every stage of the manufacturing process.

Everything starts with the Coconut

When we set out to develop our product range, we started with the products that we grew up with. For Sri Lankans, that means ingredients for cooking: Rich, creamy coconut milks for curries, coconut powder and purée for quick and easy cooking and desiccated coconut for baking. Once we had perfected our culinary range, we thought, what more can we do?

With allergies and intolerances on the rise, we knew that people needed healthy, delicious alternatives to the everyday drinks and snacks they consumed. From refreshing coconut water to low sugar coconut butter, we've used every part of the coconut to create a range that puts modern twists on our humble Sri Lankan coconut.
